SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 4.

For some days past the recel army reinforced by the Knights of the Gold-Circle from the North and West, has been advancing on the great commercial metropolis of the nation, Five years sgo a wing of the same army, advancing upon the same goal, were met and hurled back by our gallant legions at Gettysburg. To-day, in dif-ferent armor, many of the same men, are there in search of the same right they failed to find on that field. Four years ago the northern wing of the rebellion assembled in Convention at Chicago. To-day the southern wing has joined them. Then, their Southern allies being still in arms, they resolved that the war for the Union was a failure. Now if it was their object to tell the truth, they might appropriately adopt a like resolution respecting the war for the confederacy. Yet they are at New York to-day, not to accept the situation but to resist it. They propose by a po-litical combination to retrieve their lost se, to neutralize the results, the war, to undo its work, Government again in the control of those who laid violent and traitorous hands on it, and to prostrate again all other interests in the to those which then ruled it They avow that for the present they are willing to aink all other considerations for the sake of success. Principles, consistency, self-respect are to count nothing. They are like the desperate adventurer who turns against society, who to accomplish his purposes is equally ready to lie, swindle, steal, rob

Their leaders know that a frank declaration of their real purposes would be fatal. The mass of the people are not such knaves as to sympathize with their schemes, nor such fools as to peculiarly fitting and suggestive. Precisely five years ago, if we mistake not, a part of this Southern army now in vesting New York laid down their arms to the invincible General of our army at Vicksburg. The same invincible General confronts them again today, on a different field; and now as then no artifice can save them from an-

of the Government had held a carnival in the great city of New York, for the purpose of creating a division in the rear of our gallant host at Gettysburg, surrounded the Hon. Horatio Seymour, who called them his "friends," and reproving them with the gentlest of gentle words, played the role of Mark Anthony with a consummate skill never surpassed on the stage. To-day Mr. Seymour is again surrounded by the bloody-hand consummate skill never surpassed on the stage. To-day Mr. Seymour shaded in the stage. To-day Mr. Seymour shaded in stigators of their violence; and as if to make the anniversary the more complete and striking, the leaders of the rebellion in whose behalf these riots were inaugurated are there in the midst, and Mr. Seymour smilling graciously on all alike, gives each a hand and calls them all his "friends" as he called the rioters his friends in 1893. He stands above the graves of negro men and children, murdered at the instigation and countvance of himself and his fellow trailors who controlled the city government, and he gives one hand to Mayor Mouroe, under whose anspices a hundred unoffending and unresisting men were shot and hacked to death in the Mechanics' Institute at New Orleans, and the other to the bloody butchen, Forrest, who slaws thered a hetacemb of principers at Fort. Pillow after they had aurrendered, we can seen of difference in their moral guilt. They are all "friends" and all alike illustrious or infamours, as the rinal strike and the control of the control of the collection of these menon where the their moral guilt. their oppressions and cruelties.

What a mockery it is for these men to ek to give eclat to their Convention by assembling on the day upon which the founders of this Government gave to the world the sublime Declaration that all men are by nature created free and equal and endowed by their creator with the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness !

A War Democrat or Grant.

NEW YORK, July 2, 1868.

The general political situation to day remains unchanged, but there is a narked increase in the amount of out-ide brag and bluff for Pendleton. So ar as the talk of the crowd is concern-ed, his friends have it almost all their ed, his friends have it almost all their own way. The Fifth Avenue swarms with them, and the mob of Pendietonites has overflowed into all the adjacent hotels. There are not less than a thousand Pendieton men at the Fifth Avenue, betting, swearing and drinking for their favorite, and playing their game throughout on so big a scale and in so handsome a manner as to extort the admiration of their fellow westerners of whatever political faith, and to produce feelings of decided amazement and apprehension among New Yorkers. They had no expectation of being out crowed, so completely on their own dung hill.

Yorkers, They had no expectation of being out crowed, so completely on their own dung hill.

After all the bluster, however, it is impossible to see where Pendleton has made any positive gains. The only marked improvement in his position to-day is in the fact that even his bitterest antagonists are now forced to admit that he is the only candidate in the field with an organization behind him. The moral effect is thus in his favor, and the Southern delegates, whose only ambition is to be on the winning side, grow hourly more favorably inclined to him.

John Morrissey yesterday openly of the Pendleton party in a speech to the New York delegation. John told n that he was the only man in the for Seymour or for Chase or for cock, but as for him he was for were for Seymour or for Chase or for Hancock, but as for him he was for Pendleton now, as they would have to be next November. According to his own report other delegates assured him that they would go with him. The Pendleton men are bragging largely today over a great defection in the New York ranks, but so far as known the above are its precise proportions.

In their eagerness to put their best foot foremost, the Pendleton men are bonsting that Hendricks has positively withdrawn from the confest, and that his letter received yesterday peremptorily forbade the use of his name. This is an exaggeration. What Mr. Hendricks wrote was that he did not desire to have his name used as a means of injuring Pendleton, or as a cause of division, and thet as the Indiana Convention had passed a resolution of preference for Pendleton, he must insist that till some developments in the Contion should seem to warrant the change, they must vote for Pendleton. Those who advocate Hendricks insist that he hey must vote for Pendleton. Those who advocate Hendricks insist that he who advocate Hendricks insist that he is very far from withdrawal.

Notwithstanding Gov. Seymour's positive speech of declension yesterday, there are still plenty of New Yorkers who think he can be prevalled upon. To a couple of gentlemen who, this morating, pressed upon him the specific question whether, if the other States should insist upon his nomination, he would still feel bound to refuse, he replied that that question presented a different state of affairs from what he had in contemplation when he inside his speech yesterday.

his speech yesterday. The Chase movement makes no show with their achemes, nor such fools as to desire their auccess. The rebellion with its costly lessons is too recent to be thus forgotten. We do not want to re-open the pandora's box of slavery which the war has closed, and which will so remain forever if the American people are wise.

The grand object, therefore, of the Convention at New York to-day, both in the nominations and in the platform, will be to deceive and billed the people are the convention at New York to-day, both in the nominations and in the platform, will be to deceive and billed the people are the convention at New York to-day, both in the nominations and in the platform, will be to deceive and billed the people are the convention at New York to-day, both in the nominations and in the platform, will be to deceive and billed the people of the Western Democratis: "G-d d---n him; he has always carried his points and d---n him I'm afraid he'll get us in such a fix as to force us to help him trumph now. Chase.

General Schenck, who has been in town for a day or two, taking a rest after his work on the tax bill, produced much amusement at the Fifth Avenue Hotel this morning among the Western Democrats by avowing himself a candidate for the Democratic nomination against Chase. John Morrisey at once pledged himself to po for him whenever the question should be marrowed down to Chase or Schinck, Morrisey is making beis largely this most then no artines can save them from another "unconditional surrender."

Just five years ago, too, the rioters, who instigated to their bloody work of rapine and murder by the enemies of the Government had held a carnival in the great city of

What he had written and spoken many weeks since from a sense of duty, he must now repeat from a sense of honor. It was due, therefore, to himself, to his constituency, and to friends who had asked his opinion to say that he was not a candidate for the office of President of the United States. It was the highest office in the land, and a place far above his merits, and beyond his aspirations. Its importance no man could over-estimate, but he did not seek it. He was not a candidate for it, and when his friends had pressed his name he felt called upon had pressed his name he felt called upon to decline its use after what had occurred elsewhere upon this subject, to allow his name to be presented in a delegation of which he was a part, though by friends too partial to him, but whose kindness he appreciated, did not seem to him to be right. Private honor now, as well as former inclination, compelled him to say that his name must not be pressed by his friends.

clination, compelled him to say that his name must not be pressed by his friends.

Considerable dissatisfaction was manifested by prominent men in the delegation at the position assumed by Governor Seymour, but he made no reply to several who tried to get him to say that contingencies might arise when he would allow his name to be used. It was then argued that New York was rapidly losing her opportunity to make herself felt in the Convention by allowing all the States to see that she had not uited upon any one, when an adjournment was proposed. An effort was made to get an expression of opinion by ballot upon several candidates, the name of Chief Justice Chase being presented. The delegation however refused to take a vote and adjourned till to-morrow. Other delegations are awaiting the action of New York and Pennsylvania.

Ex Postmaster General Blair has a letter written by Gen. Frank P. Blair to Col. James O. Broadnead, in which he leaves the question of presenting his (Blair's) name to the Convention with Broadhead. He first argues that the Congressional plan of reconstruction cannot be defeated by Congressional action, and then continues as follows: "Regarding the means of overthrowing it, it can only be overthrown by the suthority of the Executive, who is sworn to maintain the Constitution, and who will fail to do his duty if he allows the Constitution to perish under a series of Congressional enactments which are in palpable violation of its fundamental principles. If the President elected by the Demoracy enforces or permits others to enforce these reconstruction acts, the Radicals, by the accession of twenty spurious Senators and fifty Representatives, will control both branches of Congress, and his administration will be as powerless as the present one of Mr. Johnson. There is but one way to restore the Congress, and his administration will be as powerless as the present one of Mr. Johnson. There is but one way to restore the Government and the Constitution, and hat is for the President elect to declare sets null and void, compel the Governments, allow the white people to reorganize their own governments, and elect Senators and Representatives. The House of Representatives will contain a majority of Democrats from the North and they will admit the Representatives elected by the white people of the South, and with the co-operation of the President it will not be difficult to compel the Senate to submit once more to the colligations of the Constitution; it will not be able to withstand the public judgment if distinctly invoked and clearly expressed on this fundamental issue, and it is the sure way to avoid all future strife to put this issue plainly to the country. He then declares that it is idle to talk of bonds, greenbacks, gold, the public distant the bonds, greenbacks, gold, the public faith, or the public credit, but that the above embraces all vital questions and upon that, as the platform, he desire to stand before the convention." The Southern delegates have a genera meeting to-morrow for the first time.

How MANUFACTURES DEVELOP CITY,-A good illustration of what nanulactures will do for a place when encouraged is afforded by the flourish ing town of Canton, Ohio, where reapers and mowers are made. When the inventor went there a few years ago, it was the dullest and least progressive own in the State, and was retrograding in wealth and population. He asked for ten thousand dollars from the citizens, to help him start a manufactory following are the results of the investment: Two large agricultural imple ment manufactories, of ploughs excuisively, one of stoves and hollow ware, one of resper and mower knives, and of sanddiery hardware, two of horse rakes, one of farm wagous, one of cultivators, one of wrought iron bridges, one of soaps, and others more or less extensive. These are not small concerns. The machine interest alone supports two thousand five hundred men. The town has trabled in population, quadrupled in wealth, besides daysloring a home market for farm men. The town has tremen in population, quadrupled in wealth, besides developing a home market for farm products which is stimulating production and enriching farmers in the country tributary to it. That is how the smart people of Ohio get along.
